

Cryptomeria japonica 'Kitayama-dai'

|                       |                                                                |
|-----------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|
| Height                | 4-7 m                                                          |
| Crown                 | narrow upright, open crown                                     |
| Bark and branches     | flaking, reddish brown                                         |
| Leaf                  | green, evergreen                                               |
| Flowers               | inconspicuous, flowers in April                                |
| Spines/thorns         | None                                                           |
| Toxicity              | usually not toxic to people, (large) pets and livestock        |
| Soil type             | loamy soil, sandy soil, peaty soil, acid soil                  |
| Paving                | tolerates no paving                                            |
| Winter hardiness zone | 6a (-23,3 to -20,6 °C)                                         |
| Wind resistance       | moderate                                                       |
| Other resistances     | resistant to frost (WH 1 - 6)                                  |
| Application           | parks, cemeteries, large gardens, small gardens, patio gardens |
| Shape                 | clearstem tree                                                 |
| Origin                | U.S. National Arboretum, Washington D.C., USA, 1993            |